Betterment
Compliance
New York, NY

Dear Selection Committee,

I am writing to express my strong interest in the Compliance Associate position at Betterment in New York. Betterment's mission to help people build wealth with confidence and ease depends on customers trusting that the platform is run carefully, and I am drawn to a role whose purpose is to turn dense SEC and FINRA requirements into processes the rest of the company can actually follow. The idea of building the structure of a compliance program, not just maintaining it, is exactly the kind of work I want to begin my career doing.

My interest in compliance started behind the counter at Georgetown's student-run credit union. Working at a fully operational financial institution taught me that every procedure exists for a reason: verifying identity, following each step exactly, and escalating anything unusual protects both members and the institution. I also learned that people follow a rule more reliably when they understand why it matters, so I try to explain the purpose behind a procedure rather than just the instruction. When a process felt confusing to members or colleagues, I paid attention, because friction is often where mistakes begin.

At Holland & Knight, I research legislative, regulatory, and enforcement developments in financial services and securities, and my job is to translate long, technical texts into structured summaries that attorneys and clients can act on. That work has made me a systems thinker by habit: I break a requirement into its parts, ask who needs to do what and when, and document it so anyone on the team could pick it up. I manage open items and deadlines across several attorneys, and I take real satisfaction in leaving a process cleaner and better organized than I found it. I use AI tools, including Claude, to work faster while always checking the output against the source.

I would be excited to help Betterment's compliance team design workflows, procedures, and documentation that scale with the business and make compliance feel practical rather than burdensome. Thank you for your time and consideration. I look forward to the opportunity to discuss how I could contribute to your team.

Sincerely,
Adeline Bean
