Integrate
Washington Operations, Government Affairs
Washington, D.C.

Dear Selection Committee,

I am writing to express my strong interest in the Government Affairs Analyst position on Integrate's Washington, D.C. team. Integrate is solving a problem that sits at the center of national security, keeping the government's most complex programs on schedule, and I am excited by a role that is not about monitoring for its own sake but about spotting an opportunity in policy or appropriations and owning the plan to act on it. I would welcome the chance to help build Integrate's presence on Capitol Hill from the ground up.

At Holland & Knight, I support the co-leads of the firm's National Security and Defense industry sector group, and that work has taught me how defense policy actually moves. I follow legislation, appropriations, and executive branch activity across defense, intelligence, and emerging technology, and I have learned that the most valuable skill is judgment about what matters: reading a long bill or report and identifying the few provisions a client needs to know about today. Writing for partners and former Members of Congress has trained me to be brief, precise, and candid about what remains uncertain, and preparing materials for meetings with Hill staff and agency officials has shown me how much good preparation shapes a conversation.

I also understand the Hill from the inside. Interning in Representative DeGette's office showed me how staff juggle competing priorities, how markup schedules can change a week's plans overnight, and why the people who follow up reliably earn trust. I bring the same habits of follow-through and organization to every project, and I am comfortable working with autonomy and reprioritizing quickly when the news cycle shifts. I use AI tools daily to work faster, always verifying against primary sources. A startup environment, where the role grows with the person, is exactly where I want to learn.

I would be excited to support Integrate's Managing Director of Washington Operations, track the NDAA and defense appropriations cycles, and help make sure the officials whose decisions affect your customers know what Integrate can do. Thank you for your time and consideration. I look forward to the opportunity to discuss how I could contribute to your team.

Sincerely,
Adeline Bean
