Sullivan & Cromwell LLP
Tax Group and Legislative Affairs
Washington, D.C.

Dear Selection Committee,

I am writing to express my strong interest in the Analyst, Government Affairs (Tax) position at Sullivan & Cromwell in Washington, D.C. Tax policy touches nearly every client a firm serves, and I am drawn to a role whose purpose is to keep attorneys and clients ahead of developments at Treasury, the IRS, and the tax-writing committees in real time. Producing a daily roundup and a weekly publication that thousands of readers rely on is the kind of disciplined, high-standards work I hope to build my career on.

My current work at Holland & Knight is very close to the core of this role. I track legislative and regulatory developments across Congress and federal agencies, monitor hearings and markups, and turn what I find into concise updates for attorneys, policy advisors, and former Members of Congress. Co-authoring client alerts with partners has taught me how to move a piece through several reviewers on a deadline without losing accuracy, and how to write for a busy reader who needs the bottom line first. I have also learned how much discretion matters when handling sensitive client information.

I am especially eager to deepen my knowledge of tax policy and administrative law. My Justice and Peace studies at Georgetown and my coursework in economics and political science at Colgate gave me a foundation in how institutions make and implement rules, and in Representative DeGette's office I saw how committee activity translates into the questions constituents and businesses actually face. I enjoy the routine parts of this work as much as the analysis, because accurate document retrieval, careful recordkeeping, and timely compliance filings are what make a government affairs practice trustworthy. I use AI tools to work more efficiently, but I verify every point against the primary source.

I would be excited to support S&C's Tax Group and legislative affairs attorneys, help produce the S&C Tax Policy Update, and contribute to the firm's Lobbying Disclosure Act compliance. Thank you for your time and consideration. I look forward to the opportunity to discuss how I could contribute to your team.

Sincerely,
Adeline Bean
