Goldman Sachs
Office of Regulatory Relations, Bank Regulatory Engagement
New York, New York

Dear Selection Committee,

I am writing to express my strong interest in the Analyst position in the Office of Regulatory Relations, Bank Regulatory Engagement team, at Goldman Sachs. I am drawn to the idea that a firm's relationship with its regulators is itself something to be managed with care, and that its regulatory reputation is built one accurate, timely interaction at a time. I would welcome the chance to start my career in an office that sets that standard for the entire firm.

My interest in financial regulation began at Georgetown's student-run credit union, where I work as a teller and marketing intern. Even at a small, member-owned institution, I saw how much of daily banking is shaped by rules that protect customers, and how operational controls only work when every person follows them consistently and escalates what looks wrong. At Holland & Knight, I now see the same issues from the policy side, tracking how legislation and agency actions affect regulated clients. I have learned to read the primary source first, identify exactly what changes, and flag open questions to the right person before a deadline rather than after.

This role asks for persistence and judgment under time pressure, and those are habits I have practiced deliberately. In Representative DeGette's office, casework meant following up with federal agencies until an answer arrived and keeping a precise record of every exchange. At Holland & Knight, briefing practice group leaders and former Members of Congress has taught me to write clearly for senior readers and to treat accuracy as non-negotiable. I am comfortable working across many stakeholders at once and keeping each of them informed about what I need and when.

I would be excited to support Goldman Sachs's engagement with its bank regulators while learning how a global institution manages examinations, remediation, and regulatory standards. Thank you for your time and consideration. I look forward to the opportunity to discuss how I could contribute to the Office of Regulatory Relations.

Sincerely,
Adeline Bean
