Ankura
Performance Improvement Practice
New York, NY

Dear Selection Committee,

I am writing to express my strong interest in the University Associate position in Ankura's Performance Improvement practice in New York. I am drawn to consulting work that helps organizations at critical inflection points, where clear analysis and a structured approach can make a real difference in how a business performs. Ankura's emphasis on objective, data-driven problem solving across many industries appeals to me because it rewards curiosity and the discipline to test assumptions rather than accept them.

Much of my work at Holland & Knight is breaking complex problems into manageable parts. When attorneys or clients bring me a question about new legislation or regulation, I start by defining what we actually need to know, gather evidence from primary sources, and organize my findings into a clear set of issues and recommendations. I have learned to form a hypothesis early, revise it as the facts come in, and present conclusions concisely for senior readers. I also keep track of open items and deadlines across several attorneys and practice groups, which has taught me how to keep multiple workstreams moving at once.

My interest in operations comes from Georgetown's student-run credit union, a fully operational financial institution where I serve members and create marketing content. Working there showed me how small process details shape the customer experience and the bottom line, and why written procedures and controls matter. My economics and political science coursework at Colgate gave me a foundation in analytical reasoning that I am eager to build on with financial modeling and data analysis. Co-founding two student organizations, including managing the budget as treasurer, taught me to lead a team and own outcomes. I use AI tools to speed analysis, always verifying the results.

I would be excited to support Ankura's project teams with research, analysis, client presentations, and thought leadership, and to grow into a consultant who helps clients improve performance. Thank you for your time and consideration. I look forward to the opportunity to discuss how I could contribute to your team.

Sincerely,
Adeline Bean
