J.A. Green & Company
Policy Team
Washington, D.C.

Dear Selection Committee,

I am writing to express my strong interest in the National Security Research Associate/Analyst position at J.A. Green & Company. JAG's work sits exactly where I hope to build my career: at the intersection of national security policy, the defense industrial base, and the legislative process that funds and shapes it. I am especially drawn to a policy team that works directly with senior lobbyists and retired general and flag officers on a live portfolio of defense technology clients, and to the chance to follow a full NDAA and appropriations cycle from the inside.

At Holland & Knight, I support the co-leads of the firm's National Security and Defense industry sector group, which has given me a working understanding of how companies in the defense space engage Congress and the Pentagon. I research legislation, appropriations, and committee activity, and I write background memos and briefing materials that attorneys and former Members of Congress use before client meetings. That work has taught me to read statutory and report language carefully, to explain why a provision matters to a specific client, and to write a first draft that a senior advocate can use with minimal revision. I rely on AI tools for research, summarizing, and first drafts, and I verify every point against the primary source before anything leaves my desk.

I also understand the Hill side of the relationship. Interning in Representative DeGette's office, I researched defense and veterans legislation for legislative staff and saw how much offices value outside groups that bring accurate, concise information and then follow up reliably. Co-founding Georgetown's Undergraduate Law Journal taught me to manage contributors and deadlines and to edit closely, skills I would bring to white papers, one-pagers, policy alerts, and the meeting preparation and logistics that keep a lobbying practice running smoothly.

I would be excited to support JAG's EVPs and policy team by tracking the NDAA and defense appropriations, drafting issue briefs and client reports, preparing materials for Hill engagements, and contributing to business development. Thank you for your time and consideration. I look forward to the opportunity to discuss how I could contribute to your team.

Sincerely,
Adeline Bean
