CHAOS Industries
Marketing & Communications Team
Washington, D.C.

Dear Selection Committee,

I am writing to express my strong interest in the Marketing & Communications Operations Coordinator position with CHAOS Industries in Washington, D.C. CHAOS is building technology that helps warfighters and border protection teams act faster, and as a young company it has to tell that story clearly to customers, policymakers, and future employees. I would love to be the person who keeps that work organized and on schedule, so the MarCom team can focus on the ideas.

My interest in defense grew out of my work at Holland & Knight, where I support the co-leads of the firm's National Security & Defense industry sector group. That experience showed me how much rides on communicating accurately about defense technology, and how many people touch a single published piece before it goes out. Co-authoring client alerts with partners taught me to manage drafts, gather feedback, and chase approvals without letting a deadline slip. I have learned that a good coordinator anticipates the next step, and I make a habit of sending updates before anyone has to ask.

I enjoy being a team's source of truth. As co-founder, executive editor, and treasurer of Georgetown's Women in Law Club and Undergraduate Law Journal, I built our calendars, budgets, and publication timelines from scratch, planned events, and kept a volunteer editorial team moving toward each issue. At Georgetown's student-run credit union, I create marketing content for members and work within strict operational procedures, and in Representative DeGette's office, I logged and routed casework so that nothing fell through the cracks. I am comfortable working with outside partners, tracking the details, and finding simpler ways to get work done.

I would be proud to help CHAOS's Marketing & Communications team run smoothly as the company grows, and to learn from a team telling one of the most important stories in defense technology. Thank you for your time and consideration. I look forward to the opportunity to discuss how I could contribute to your team.

Sincerely,
Adeline Bean
