Capstone
Research Analyst Associate Program
Washington, D.C.

Dear Selection Committee,

I am writing to express my strong interest in Capstone's Research Analyst Associate Program for the summer 2027 start. I am a Georgetown University senior studying Justice and Peace, and my work has centered on policy research, regulatory analysis, and strategic communications. Capstone's premise, that policy and regulatory change can be analyzed as rigorously as any other market force, describes the work I have enjoyed most. I am especially drawn to the program's sector-team model, its emphasis on primary research and stakeholder interviews, and the chance to contribute to defense and national security or energy analysis for investors who act on the conclusions.

As a Public Policy and Regulation Intern at Holland & Knight LLP, I have written more than 50 research memos on legislative and regulatory developments across financial services, emerging technology, national security, and critical supply chains, and I deliver weekly policy briefings to practice group leaders and former Members of Congress. The work requires me to learn unfamiliar subject matter quickly, separate signal from noise in a large volume of legislative and agency material, and explain what a development means for the businesses affected. Before that, as a Legislative Intern in the Office of Representative Diana DeGette, I researched financial services, appropriations, and emerging technology issues and handled constituent casework on regional energy access and environmental concerns. That experience gave me a practical sense of how policy is made on the Hill and how it lands on the ground.

I have also co-authored published client alerts with Holland & Knight partners, which taught me to write clear, defensible analysis on deadline for sophisticated readers. Capstone's clients need the same thing. My earlier work at the National Endowment for Financial Education, where I analyzed more than 70 state financial-literacy bills, gave me experience tracking policy across many jurisdictions at once. As co-founder, Executive Editor, and Treasurer of Georgetown's Women in Law Club and Undergraduate Law Journal, I lead an editorial team and take submissions from first draft to publication. That has reinforced my standards for precision, collaboration, and ownership of a final product.

I would be excited to begin my career at a firm where research directly informs consequential investment and corporate decisions, and where associates are trusted with real responsibility early. Thank you for your time and consideration. I look forward to the opportunity to discuss how I could contribute to Capstone's research teams.

Sincerely,
Adeline Bean
