ClearPath
Clean Power, Natural Resources and Research Team
Washington, D.C.

Dear Selection Committee,

I am writing to express my strong interest in the Policy Associate position on ClearPath's Clean Power, Natural Resources and Research team. ClearPath's focus on practical, innovation-driven solutions, from geothermal and hydropower to critical minerals and permitting, speaks to the question I care most about in energy policy: how to deliver more reliable, affordable, and cleaner power at the speed the country now needs. The surge in electricity demand from data centers and AI makes that question more urgent every month.

My Justice and Peace studies at Georgetown taught me to look closely at how institutions make decisions, and my internships have let me watch energy policy take shape. At Holland & Knight, I follow energy, infrastructure, and national security developments across Congress, the White House, and federal agencies. That work has taught me to get up to speed quickly on unfamiliar, technical issues: I start with the primary source, whether a bill, a hearing record, or a proposed rule, and then figure out what a policymaker needs to know first. Writing for partners and former Members of Congress has shown me that the most useful analysis is short, accurate, and candid about what is still uncertain.

I am especially drawn to the mix of rapid-response research and longer thought leadership in this role. Co-authoring client alerts has given me practice turning complex developments into clear published pieces, and in Representative DeGette's office, I saw how Hill staff weigh the information they receive and how valuable a trusted, well-sourced resource can be. As co-founder and executive editor of Georgetown's Undergraduate Law Journal, I have learned to manage deadlines and edit others' work with care. I use AI tools to speed research while verifying everything against the original sources.

I would be excited to support ClearPath's Policy, Government Affairs, and External Affairs teams in educating policymakers on the technologies that will keep America's grid strong. Thank you for your time and consideration. I would welcome the opportunity to discuss how I could contribute to your team.

Sincerely,
Adeline Bean
