FS Vector
Government Relations Team
Washington, D.C.

Dear Selection Committee,

I am writing to express my strong interest in the Associate position on FS Vector's Government Relations team. I want to begin my career learning how Washington actually works, from Capitol Hill to the federal financial regulators, and FS Vector's focus on banking, payments, and fintech policy sits exactly where I hope to build expertise. The description of this role as a foundation for future goals, including law school or regulatory work, also matches where I am: I am seriously weighing law school, and I can think of no better preparation than producing client-ready policy work at a firm that takes writing and judgment this seriously.

My interest in financial services policy began at Georgetown's student-run credit union, where I work as a teller and marketing intern. Serving members every day showed me how much of ordinary financial life is shaped by rules most people never read, and how a thoughtful regulatory framework can protect people while still leaving room for new products. At Holland & Knight, I now follow those same questions from the policy side. I have learned to start with the primary source, whether a bill, a hearing transcript, or a proposed rule, and then distill it into what a client needs to know and what they should do next.

I also value the relationship side of government relations. In Representative DeGette's office, I saw how congressional staff decide whose information they trust, and it is almost always the person who is accurate, prepared, and respectful of their time. At Holland & Knight, preparing briefing materials ahead of client meetings with offices and agencies has taught me to anticipate questions and to follow through on every commitment afterward. I take ownership of my work, volunteer for new projects, and am comfortable juggling competing deadlines in a fast-paced environment.

I would be excited to contribute to FS Vector's advocacy for innovative financial services companies and to grow within a team that values rigorous analysis and disciplined stakeholder engagement. Thank you for your time and consideration. I look forward to the opportunity to discuss how I could support your Government Relations practice.

Sincerely,
Adeline Bean
