T-Mobile
Government Affairs, State Attorneys General Team
Washington, D.C.

Dear Selection Committee,

I am writing to express my strong interest in the Analyst, Government Affairs position on T-Mobile's State Attorneys General team. State attorneys general increasingly shape how technology and communications companies operate, through consumer protection, privacy, and antitrust enforcement, and I am drawn to a role that helps a company understand that landscape across all fifty states and engage with it constructively. As I consider law school, I can think of few better places to learn how law, policy, and advocacy meet.

My Justice and Peace studies at Georgetown have centered on how institutions protect people, and state attorneys general are some of the most direct examples of that work. At Holland & Knight, I track legislative, regulatory, and enforcement developments and turn them into weekly briefings for senior partners and former Members of Congress. That work has taught me to read primary sources carefully, separate signal from noise, and explain clearly why a development matters and what should happen next. I have also learned how much readers depend on accuracy, consistency, and timing.

This role also asks for coordination, and I enjoy being the person who keeps information moving. In Representative DeGette's office, I handled casework that required following up with agencies and keeping precise records until each matter was resolved. At Holland & Knight, I coordinate inputs across attorneys and advisors and prepare background materials and talking points ahead of meetings. I use AI tools to speed up research while always verifying the underlying sources, and I am comfortable managing many open items with discretion.

I would be excited to support T-Mobile's engagement with state attorneys general and help the Government Affairs team stay ahead of the trends that affect its customers and business. Thank you for your time and consideration. I look forward to the opportunity to discuss how I could contribute to your team.

Sincerely,
Adeline Bean
